SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT.

The Body of Col. Boss Found in a Lake. The papers of this morning publish an account of the drowning in Osceola lake, near Peekskill, N.Y., of Col. Samuel Ross, a retired army officer. From the description of the deceased it is likely that he is the gentleman who within the past two or three years has spent some time in this city, boarding at the Stevens house. The full dispatch in regard to the sad occurrence, is as follows:

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 11.-A Peekskill despatch to the Eagle says: Colonel Samuel Ross, a retired United States army officer, 58 years of age, came from Washington a few weeks ago to the Jefferson Valley hotel, eight miles from Peekskill, with his wife, to board for the summer. Some three or four days since he was taken with erysipelas in the face and neck, and was confined to the house. Yesterday he was somewhat better, and spoke of taking a bath in the Osceola lake, but was persuaded not to do so. This morning about 4 o'clock, his wife missed him from the bed, and, going to look for him, saw his clothing lying on the shore of the lake, which is about 100 feet from the hotel. Mrs. Ross returned to the hotel and procured the assistance of the landlord and others. They went down to the lake and three or four yards from shore, where the water is seven or eight feet deep, saw the colonel's head just beneath the water. Mr. Frye, the landlord, took an oar, and placing it under the colonel's arm, brought him to the shore and found that he was dead. Justice W. R. Jones was sent for, who, acting as coroner, called a jury at about 10 a. m. and held an inquest. The jury gave a verdict of accidental drowning. The body was then taken in charge by an undertaker, and will be buried at Carmel, Putnum county, N. Y., to-morrow.

Col. Ross entered the army as a brevet second lieutenant in 1848, but resigned shortly afterward. In 1861 he was appointed a captain of the Fourteenth Infantry, and in 1862 became colonel of the Twentieth Connecticut Volunteers, and was mustered out Jan. 1, 1871. He was appointed second lieutenant of the Seventh Infantry in 1872, and soon afterward was retired as a brigadier general to date from Jan. 1. 1871, but in 1875 his rank on the retired list was reduced to a coloneley by act of Congress.

Worth G. Ross, a well-known young gentleman who has many friends in this city, is a son of the colonel. He boarded at the Stevens house with his father and is navy. Several weeks ago he was in this city spending a few days with his friends. Shortly after that he left this country on board the revenue cutter "Chase," and it is supposed that he is now in Gib-

Col. Ross was a pleasant gentleman, and he had many friends here who will be sorry to learn of his sad death. His with a rope used for the erection of the friends here state that the colonel and his Huncock pole in front of Hagelganz's the supervision of Mr. Wm. pupils of the boys' academy at Lititz, this the shafts injured. county.

My DEAR LITTLE MEN: I was very much pleased to get such a fine batch of letters, and much surprised at the curious coincidences of my imaginary and your real school. I am glad you like me, boys, for you are the best judges truth of the pictures I drew them. If I had known of your school before I wrote the book, I should have been tempted to ask Mr. Beck to let me come and study you a little, and put you into the story. I wrote it in Rome and had not a boy anywhere to refresh myself with, so I recalled many of my own early scrapes, and got some artists and gentlemen to tell me theirs, and just popped the pranks into my book. I suppose that is why you like them, for I could never have made up anything so funny as the Kittymouse or Tommy Bangs's capers. I was born in Pennsylvania, and if I ever go anywhere near your school you will see a tall, thin woman, with a twinkle in her eyes, come tapping at your door, or, more likely, "peeking" in the window, for Jo never behaves quite properly, and likes fun as much at 40 as she did at 14. Many of the queer things in the book happened in my father's school in Boston 30 years ago, and a record of that school is soon to be published. Shall I send you a copy, so that you can read how the boys really did ferule the master, and other things as curious and useful? I'm not sure that pillow fights would succeed out of a story. I am sure that your Mrs. Jo wouldn't like to have her pillow-cases spoilt any more than I should, and I have my doubts about real boys being able to subside so quickly after it. I hope that your Plumfield will prosper beautifully, and always be to you a helpful, happy memory. With best wishes to you every one, and regards to Mr. and Mrs. Beck, I am, my dear lads, very sincerely your friend. L. M. ALCOTT.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS. A Child Falls Down Stairs—Boy Injured by Powder Explosion—A Lad Shoots his Brother—A Young Man's Hand Badly Lacerated,

On Saturday afternoon a little daughter at Graeff's landing, accidentally tripped and fell down the cellar steps. At the bottom of the stairway was a crock lying at the time; the little girl fell upon it breaking it to pieces and cutting an ugly gash in her hand.

On Saturday night a 16-year-old son of Abraham Huber, residing near Willow street purchased a revolver and began shooting at his younger brother for the purpose of frightening him. He was a very poor markman, for instead of missing the boy, as he desired, the ball struck him in the side. It hit a rib and glancing off passed around body, in which it yet remains.

Yesterday Elmer McCardle, 14 years of age, Henry Bickle and two sons of David M. Root, all of whom reside at Willow Street, went to fight a bees nest. Instead of fighting the bees with paddles, as other boys do, they thought they would try a new experiment. By some means they they sprinkled over the nest. One of the boys then placed a box over the nest, and procuring a fuse put it through a hole in the box. About the time they were going to apply the match the powder, which had caught fire in some manner, exploded. Young McCardle was terribly burned about the face and head, and his clothing was almost burned from his body. The other boys were not injured.

The victims in all of the above cases were attended by Dr. I. H. Mayer, of Willow Street.

This morning as David Hancock Peterman, aged 17 years, and employed at No. 1 cotton mill was engaged in assisting auother lad at his work in the picker room of said mill he accidentally got the fingers of his left hand caught in the rollers, and had three of them terribly lacerated, the flesh being torn from the bones. Dr. S. T. Davis was summoned and dressed the wounds. The bones are not crushed, and it is thought the fingers may be saved. The young man resides with his father George Peterman, No. 310 North street.

Mr. L. A. Prezinger, of the Lancaster watch factory, while engaged in assisting some of the workmen in running a plate through the rolls on Saturday afternoon, was se unfortunate as to get the index finger of his left hand caught between the at present a lieutenant in the United States cogs, and though he succeeded in extricating the member before the bone was crushed, the end of the finger is quite badly mashed, and he will probably be deprived of the use of it for some weeks. On Saturday evening about 10 o'clock as Robert Stewart and Harry Carpenter were driving on East King steet, their horse took fright from coming in contact loose and ran to his stable. The young smith. gentlemen jumped from the vehicle and escaped unhurt. The phaeton in which they were riding had the dashboard kicked | which will be placed an eight-horse-power the foilowing entertaining letter to the in and the axle bent, a wheel dished and engine intended to run a chopping mill to

THE COCHRAN ROBBERY.

A Mistake Corrected. In noticing the robbery of the residence of Thos. B. weeks. Miss Florence McSorley is at Atlantic City and will remain two weeks.

TANNER'S RIVAL.

Twenty-Six Days Without Food, Henry Ramsey, an inmate of the Lancaster hospital, is a formidable rival of Dr. Tanner. Twenty-six days ago, it is said, he began fasting. This morning he ate something for the first time, although he has drank water within that time. It is said that there is a man at the hospital who is willing to swear that this story is correct.

Pole Raising. The young Democrats of the east end of the Third ward on Saturday procured a fine hickory pole for the purpose of erecting it in front of Hagelganz's hotel on East King street. From want of proper tackle and other appliances the pole was not put up until this morning. It is tall and well proportioned, and bears aloft the names of 'Hancock and English, and is surmounted by a game looking Democratic rooster.

Oats Stolen. On Saturday or Sunday night thieves entered the flour and feed store of D. H. Wenger and Bro., on North Prince street, between Orange and West King, and stole between five and ten bushels of oats. They effected an entrance by breaking the lock discovered until this morning.

ITEMS FROM FULTON.

From Our Regular Correspondent. This noted medicinal spring is being visited by a large number of people from Philadelphia and elsewhere. The "Black Barren Spring House" (certainly an unfortunate name) has been repainted inside and out and nicely furnished by the proprietor, James Black, esq., of your city, and no pains have been spared to make everything convenient for sojourning at the springs. This fine boarding house the present season is in charge of Mr. J. Wesley Thompson and lady. Visitors at the springs will find them congenial company and ever on the alert to make their stay pleasant. The spring is becoming a resort for the young people of the neighborhood who drive for miles to quaff its sparkling water. On last Sabbath flfty carriages drove into the enclosure near the spring house." A fortnight ago I noticed in your weekly a list of the oldest people in the United States. Now suppose we try to get up a reliable list of the octogenarians of this county. As your Fulton correspodent I will sent you my installment: Hannah Brown, 101 years 15th of this month; Agnes King, 87 years; Jane Craig, colored, procured a pound of gunpowder, which 91. There are least at four persons living in Little Britain who are beyond four score years; of these are John Johnson 80 years; and William Gibson 87.

There are probably 300 acres of tobacco planted in this township this season. The most extensively engaged in tobacco raising is Jos. C. Stubbs, who has 14 acres planted. Many others have from 2 to 5 acres. The "boss" patch, more properly "the superb" patch, so far, is an acre grown by Jer. B. Boyd of Peach Bottom. The alluvial soil of the river-lands are calculated to yield large and fine quality of

The wheat and oats of this section o the county will turn out very poor in quality, quantity and weight. The prospects for a corn crop at the present writing never looked more favorable.

Gap and Vicinity.

The Pennsylvania railroad company rebuilding the overhead bridge, just east of the railroad station at this place. This should have been done long before this, as the stalling of the heavy freight trains renders the crossing at times impassable, and often puts our people to considerable trouble to cross the railroad.

The festival for the benefit of the Gap M. E. church, to be held in Penn Monument hall, in the afternoon and evening of the 17th inst., promises to be a success. The tunnel at this place is being rapidly pushed forward. The excavators advance at the rate of six yards per week, which is considered remarkably fast through such a strata as is encountered in the excavation. They have adopted a plan which is found of great advantage in draining the water from the quicksand ahead of the tunnelers, so as to keep the strata as dry as possible. The draining of the water is done by digging wells and these are pumped out under Here he broke a trace, and commenced by perpetual motion.
